BARBOUR IS IN SECLUSION.

*Dock and Terminal Company

*Why He Was Forced Out of
Its Directorate* $1.00

Henry P. Barbour, the missing Long Beach man, who last week was forced from the directorate of the Los Angeles Dock and Terminal Company, was still in seclusion, up to a late hour last night, his friends claiming they had neither seen nor heard from him.

Dana Burke, president of the company, which has undertaken the construction of a new pier, said he had

"I have not seen Barbour since Thursday. I do not know where he has gone. Of course, I feel sorry for the man in his present difficulties, yet we could not help take the action we did at our recent meeting in justice to the company. "Barbour has not defrauded the Dock & Terminal Company out of a dollar."

his knowledge; but his 'boomer' methods were objectionable and not in keeping with the policy of this company. He is a man who does not know the value of money, and who has not been wise in his expenditures.

"When the company was organized he took Barbour in, because we knew that he was a hustler, a man with a great deal of energy, which it appeared could be turned to good advantage in the work we had in hand."

But we soon began to hear unsatisfactory details of his handling outside business matters, and it was decided that it would be wise to get rid of him.

"There is no possibility of loss to the Rock and Terminal Company through the troubles which have come upon Mr. Barbour. While he has made numerous sales for the company of lands adjoining the inner harbor, he has not handled cash in these transactions. While the business has in many cases "Of course, Barbour is still a stockholder in the company. But he holds only 200 shares. There is not the slightest reason to believe that his being displaced in the directorate of the company will have any effect on the general work of this concern.

LONG BEACH AMAZED.
OPINIONS OF HIS ASSOCIATES.
LONG BEACH. Feb. 4.—The news of the disappearance of Henry B. Barbour and his financial troubles was read with amazement by the majority of ing Beach people today. The knowledge of his troubles was confined probably to less than half a dozen people, and they the ones affected by his failure to meet notes. These persons are not talking about the matter.

J. M. Parsell, who was said to be the leader in the movement to force Barbour to pay up, denies it and says he was as much surprised as any one this morning. He says Barbour was indebted to him, but he doubts whether commissions coming from that side of the Back Bay tract would have received Barbour, Mr. Parsell owned the Ocean Pier tract, which Barbour bought, but this was secured by notes addressed by W. I. Porterfield and he felt no uneasiness. As to the San Pedro property, Mr. Barbour had that property on option and Parsell will lose nothing. It is the purchasers who have made partial payments on lots and have no deed or title to show.

the lowers if anybody loses. Mr. Barbour would not talk much, saying the matter was in the hands of his attorneys.

W. L. Porterfield had little to say, at that he was not so optimistic about the commissions due Mr. Barbour reviving him of his obligations. He is a holder of three notes, $28,000, $5000 and $5000, for money secured by Mr. Barbour to promote Ocean Pier tract. On this $18,000 has been paid him.

Barbour impressed everybody as a eart-hearted man, who could make ney, but had no idea of the value t, and spent it freely for his ands, relying on the morrow to ing more.

Two years ago he financed the beach at the east of the pier, and in order to secure a top dressing of loam, promised the City Trustees to cut down this bluff to street grade, terrace, park and otherwise beautify it, if they would remove the streets through it and give him the surplus dirt. The request was granted, and Barbour got his dirt and outlook for his streets, but the improvements were never made, because he claimed he was stopped in the work, and the bluff today, as in the past, is a blot on the city.

for the Long Beach Dock and Terminal Company was supplied by the islands capitalists, and therefore the people of this city are much interested in the Barbour case. Several directors of the company talked freely tonight about the connection Barbour had with the company, the burden of their statements being that, no matter what became of Barbour, the company would be nothing.

Curtis, second vice-president of company, said:

"Barbour had only 200 shares of stock in the company at the time of his disappearance. He had no financial connections."

All contracts were made by C. Campbell and were in the hands of C. Ames."

"We don't know where he is," said C. Avery, another stockholder. "He received the scheme of dredging and working in tracts, and as such promoter finally accepted it."

Owens River Water Project Easy to Finance.

Secretary of Interior Told What We Can Do.

Important Statement is Sent to Washington.

The City Council when requesting the Secretary of the Interior to turn over all public lands in the Owens River Valley and stop the work now contemplated there by the reclamation department, realized that some assurance of the city's intention and ability to carry out the gigantic plan should be furnished.

Therefore, by resolution, the Secretary of the City Auditor to send a communication to the Secretary of the Interior in which the financial standing of the city of Los Angeles should be set forth in plain and simple language.

In the same resolution the Council also directed the Secretary of the City Auditor to prepare a statement of the financial condition of the city of Los Angeles, and a certain copy is hereto attached.

In accordance with said resolution, the Secretary of the City Auditor has prepared the following statement:

ANALYSIS OF THE FINANCIAL CONDITION OF THE CITY OF LOS ANGELES, CALIF., FOR THE YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1905.

The above statement shows that the City of Los Angeles is in a financially sound position, and is able to carry out the Owens River Water Project.

The City of Los Angeles is a city of great wealth and resources, and is able to carry out the Owens River Water Project.

lowing this principle a foothold there is no limit to its application and no end to the uses to which it might be put. The great weakness in such a law would be, first, the inherent right of every human being to live, second, the inability of any one to judge absolutely whether a case be curable or not; and third, the lack of any standard by which to measure the conditions apparently necessary for its enforcement.

The needs of the future will not be those of today. Within the past fifteen years the three incurable diseases were leprosy, tuberculosis of the lungs and cancer. The first yields to the Finney ray; the second under proper environments often recovers; and for a remedy for the third men are working earnestly and incessantly and we are but waiting the fortunate moment of its discovery to put it into practice.

GRANT GOULD SPEER.

FIRST AMERICAN IS EULOGIZED.

"ABRAHAM LINCOLN" AT GOSPEL TEMPERANCE MEETING.

Eloquent Utterances from Francis Murphy and Other Speakers on the Blanchard Hall Platform—Salutes of Wit Cause Much Laughter—North and South Unite.

"Abraham Lincoln," as the topic, gave great scope and inspiration to the Francis Murphy gospel temperance meeting last night. Blanchard Hall was filled to overflowing, and many of the splendid sentences eulogistic of the first American were received with enthusiastic applause.

Murphy said, in the course of his opening remarks: "There are always a lot of us guessing how this man or that happened to do a certain thing, or how he reached a great place."

"Abraham Lincoln has been talked of all over the world, and not always in the best way. We have been told too much about his poverty; the Lincoln family never was poor; there was no such thing in that day. These Westminister Abbey institutions—the log cabin—are not to be despised. I can tell you. Some of us had a very humble beginning, with the kitchen in the parlor, and the cellar under the bed, but now we can turn on the gas and the thing will get all over the house before you can light it. The poverty talk about Lincoln is all wrong, and has given a wrong impression to some people. He was rich in many ways, and had more love of God in him than we are able to understand."

"There were two sides to this question between the North and the South, and if I had lived in the South I'd have been with them, but as it was, I was with the North. When the Prodigal came home he was glad to get back, but he didn't want his biography read to him."

There was much laughter and applause at many of the old orator's sallies of wit, as well as his patriotic utterances of love and reverence for the first martyr President, who, he said, never spoke a word of hatred toward the South, and when Mr. Murphy recited a portion of the famous address made by Mr. Lincoln at his first inauguration, his voice was so filled with emotion that he spoke with great difficulty. Murphy's thoughts led him off onto the awful crime that made a martyr of Mrs. C. A. Canfield a week ago, and he scored most unmercifully the "diers and loaders who are encouraged to do no work, and yet get paid for not doing it. There's no telling," he said, "when one of those fellows will turn up on your veranda or mine and kill your wives, because he is refused money."

Addresses of remarkable eloquence were also made on the life and character of Lincoln by W. H. Harris and L. C. Gates. Some of the most vital sentences of Mr. Harris, whose father was in the Southern army, were these:

"It has come to me with great force that if the people of the Southland had known of the great heart of Abraham Lincoln, as they know it now, the war of secession would never have happened. It is marvelous that this great man could go through those four years of bloodshed and carnage and never utter a word of hate. He laid the foundation for the splendid feeling that exists today between all sections of our country. It was because of him that old Joe Wheeler could die in a soldier's uniform."

The meeting was presided over by W. O. Morton, who is also a Southern man, and he, too, made an eloquent speech at the opening of the meeting, though he did not speak directly upon Lincoln.

The "Harvesters" organization of women will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, No. 1809 Wilton place. A tree-planting ceremony will be celebrated at the same place on February 22.

WHAT ONE MAN ACCOMPLISHED.

Remarkable Career of Young Mining Engineer.

Augustus Heinze's Big Fight in Montana.

Success Comes After Years of Bitter Strife.

The news comes—a surprise to the mining reader, but not unexpected by those who have followed the recent career of the mining magnate in Montana—that the long and fierce contest between the officers of the Amalgamated Copper Company, and F. Augustus Heinze and associates, has suddenly come to an end.

When brought to an end, and that has been installed general manager of the company.

His remarkable career of F. A. Heinze like an overgrown rooster, he was the first to enter the arena.

Heinze, who was born in 1853, at the village of Bismarck, in the state of Pennsylvania, was educated at the University of Pennsylvania.

Heinze, who was born in 1853, at the village of Bismarck, in the state of Pennsylvania, was educated at the University of Pennsylvania.

one of the principal sources of the Amalgamated Company's income was cut off, for its earnings were larger than those of any other of the constituent companies of the trust.

But, while the Amalgamated Copper Company was called a Standard Oil trust, it should be noted that at this time John D. Rockefeller owned no stock in the concern. His brother, William Rockefeller, however, together with H. H. Rogers, James Stillman, Anson P. Flower, John G. Archbold and others in the Standard Oil, did have blocks of Amalgamated stock, and probably a controlling interest.

These powerful capitalists were confident of successfully fighting their way through the Montana courts, but when they were beaten at every stage of the contest by this young engineer, fighting almost single-handed against the most formidable combination of capitalists in the country, they at last—so it was claimed by Heinze—resorted to the use of enormous bribes, offered so directly as to be within the pale of the law.

When these were spurned and proved ineffectual, they then resorted to slander, endeavoring to besmirch the name of the presiding judge by circulating scandalous stories involving this functionary's name. These slanders were repelled as malicious and without a shadow of foundation, and the Supreme Court, and H. H. Heinze stood forth with clear and unblemished reputations.

And now, at last, Heinze has come into his own, with an undisturbed fortune variously estimated at from $15,000,000 to $50,000,000, and to cap the climax is placed in managerial control of all the Amalgamated Copper properties. It is a wonderful triumph of bright intelligence, technical knowledge, and skillful and adroit management of men, courts and opportunities, with few parallels in the history of financial operations.

For Family Colds

A reliable Cough and Cold cure should be always in the house ready for use the moment the first symptoms appear. It is always easier, cheaper and better to check a cold in the very beginning.

Shilo's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, has been tested for thirty-three years, and tens of thousands of homes in the United States and Canada to-day are never without it.

"We are even in family. We have bought many bottles of Shilo's Consumption Cure. It is good and we would not be without it."—Miss Mary E. Apple, Gouverneur, N.Y.

If it were anything but the best would this be so? Try it in your own family. If it does not cure, you get back all it cost you. We take all the chances. Neither you nor your dealer can lose. Isn't that fair? 25c. is the price. All dealers in medicine sell.

PASTORS BID HIM WELCOME.

Hearty Greeting is Tendered to Dr. Northrop.

Ministers of Many Denominations Take Part.

Distinguished Divine Takes His New Pulpit.

Hearty and sincere, tender and affectionate, was the welcome accorded yesterday to Dr. Stephen A. Northrop, the new pastor of the First Baptist Church. It was typical of the warm-hearted hospitality of Southern California. From pulpit and platform, baptismal font and gallery, against a cool green background of ferns and amylax, hundreds of stately ladies and scores of gorgeous roses nodded a greeting to the popular Kansas City divine who has come to cast his fortunes in this sunny Southland.

His congregation greeted him cordially at the morning service and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon there was a coming to this church of Dr. Northrop, but the return of a portion of its membership that left last September. It signifies the intention to retain between this church and this church a relationship with each other. Separation should never be of the heart, no matter what differences there may be in opinion. I rejoice in this opportunity of coming back to this church where I spent seven years as its pastor. Here I knew some of my greatest joys and here I knew some of my deepest sorrows. This morning, by a rising vote of my people at Burbank Hall, I was asked to bear their greetings to Dr. Northrop and wish him a blessed ministry in the power of the Holy Ghost.

Evidently a large number of Mr. Smale's congregation were in the audience, as was indicated by the applause which followed his remarks.

BURDETTE'S TRIBUTE.

Rev. Robert J. Burdette was introduced as the representative of the tender and gentle Christian life, and the sunny-hearted philosopher denounced pessimism and declared that never before in the history of the world was the progress of the church so marked. He let loose a flood of eloquence that was a poetic picture of Christian progress. Among other things he said: "You will observe that your pulpit is many things high. It is close down to the pew, so that pastor and people need never be far away from each other. You will be so close together that you can look into each other's eyes, and if you will look a little more earnestly you can see down into each other's hearts. Don't look for imperfections. They are there, plenty of them, but you will take harm to yourself if you look for them. There are their chosen leader is not a novice but comes with a rich experience of twenty-five years in a quarter of a century filled with works of grace and zeal.

Dr. Northrop selected as his topic "A Bulletin of Victory" from the text found in Joshua 6:20. "It is always expected" he remarked "that the pastor in Los Angeles during the three years which have intervened since his last visit to this city," said Maj.-Gen. Wheaton, U.S.A., retired, a distinguished veteran officer with a brilliant record, who has been spending the last few days sightseeing in this city. Gen. Wheaton has been registered at the Lankershim Hotel, and when seen last night said that he was weary endeavoring to visit the pilgrimages of the city which have sprung up since his last visit.

At the same time, with his eulogistic words for the growth of the city, he sounded a word of warning. The transcontinental railroads which have been enjoying unparalleled prosperity for the last few years, and the hundreds of thousands of easterners to this country.

He said that the companies are apportioning the railroads connecting the great central city with the Gulf of Mexico, looking for a vigorous campaign to capture the bulk of the business of the railroads, and diverting it to the newly-found pleasure resorts in the West Indies.

Continuing, Gen. Wheaton said: "I had read considerable of the wonderful work of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce for my present visit to tell me that the half has never been told. I look forward to the morning of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and that will mean a city many times greater than it is at present. The development of the city is a great thing, and the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is doing a great deal of good work for the city."

At the close of the singing the Rev. M. M. Kilpatrick of Pasadena, who was introduced, Mr. Kilpatrick congratulated the members of the congregation on their remarkable increase in numerical strength, and the beautiful new building which they are erecting. He said that in the joy which they felt at the realization of their plan, they should not forget their increased responsibilities, for enlarged facilities and a greater chance to fulfill their obligations to God.

"This stone is the expression of your convictions," he said "to every one who beholds it it stands as a messenger of your condition. It has a voice. What is it? It speaks first of you and of the world's great need of Christ's gospel. It is a sad fact of human existence that man is by nature a sinner. It cannot be explained away, refined definitions do not remove it."

"Secondly," it speaks your faith in the gospel of Christ, the remedy for the need, it is the Divine specific. "Thirdly," this stone speaks your sympathy with the aggressive missionary spirit of the gospel, evangelize all Nations, the marching order of the great Head of the church.

The Rev. W. A. Logan, who was called to the pulpit and under his administration the church has branched out and its field has become broader. The handsomeness of the new church building is the realization of the hopes of the members, hopes which they have been cherishing in secret for many years.

merce, and then followed a selection by a male chorus. The Thelma Wilbur, State secretary of the Y.W.C.A., and Ray Campbell, assistant State secretary of the Y.M.C.A., brought greetings and praise for the local workers, and Miss Alice Wilson and J. E. Springer, local secretaries, told in brief of the fruition of the hopes of those who supporting the association movement.

Letters of greeting from many California associations were read, and then Mrs. C. J. Walker, president of the Young Woman's Association, and Stephen Townsend, vice-president of the Young Men's Association, placed in the stone the copper box, in which were the following articles: Bible, Y.W. and Y.M.C.A. badges, and colors of the Sunlight Club; engraved certificate of honor to the furnishing fund, names of the donors of the building fund, roster of Y.W.C.A., roster of 552 Y.M.C.A. membership applications, minutes of joint ways and means committee, articles of incorporation of both associations, constitution and by-laws of both, copy of local newspaper.

GOODRICH TELLS WHY. J. A. Goodrich, who has been elected to the Assembly the past two terms, and who declines a nomination for the third time, yesterday gave his reasons for not seeking the honor again. "I have not been intimate to me from any source," he said, "that there would be opposition to my candidacy for a third term. On the other hand, party leaders and friends have urged me to stand. I have enjoyed the experience of two legislative sessions, and each session was as good as a year in university. Each time I was made a member of the Ways and Means Committee, perhaps the most important committee of the Legislature. But I have clients whose business I desire to keep.

CORONADO PRIZES AT MONTGOMERY'S. CUTTER HOME IN LIMELIGHT. IS NOT FAVORED FOR SANATORIUM IN MONROVIA.

Attorney for the Man of the House Will be Appealed to if Such an Institution is Forced Upon the Neighborhood—Voted into Saturday Afternoon Club.

MONROVIA, Feb. 4.—Once more there is a change at the Cutter home on Mayflower street, which has been held first in E. Kendall; Cutter's control then that of his wife. It is rented to a family by the name of Hopkins who first came to Monrovia to establish a tuberculosis sanatorium, and who stated to Mrs. Cutter's agent that they had abandoned their project when the place was let to them.

Complaints against midnight festivities at the Cutter home once aroused the ire of its mistress, and it was first thought that Mrs. Cutter was planning very quiet neighbors for those who had insisted upon this condition during her occupancy of the place. Mrs. Cutter has moved to Los Angeles, where she will make her home temporarily.

There is a strong sentiment locally against sanatoriums being sandwiched among Monrovia residences. The attorney for Cutter will be appealed to to help out if such an institution is forced into a neighborhood where handsome residences are going up.

IS VOTED INTO CLUB. Mrs. Henry Morris, wife of the former president of the Granite Club, was voted into the Saturday Afternoon Club yesterday at an informal business session held before the social hour, while matters of importance came up at the regular session which followed.

Mrs. Morris formerly was a member of the club and allowed her membership to lapse after a contest in which she was defeated for the presidency by Mrs. E. S. Armstrong.

At that time bitterness was rife among the advocates of the candidates and the club was badly broken up. It has since grown in size, influence and property, and taken its place as one which excels in actual accomplishments.

MONROVIA SLOPE BRIEFS. There were over a hundred women present yesterday afternoon at the club social to hear La Salle A. Maynard, associate editor of Frank Leslie's Weekly, speak on the subject of "Bella." Mrs. Homer Fort was hostess, and was assisted by a popular coterie of ladies.

The advent of spring in Monrovia is heralded by the largest number of birds seen here in years. The robins have come, mockingbirds in great numbers make night musical, while linnets, median crown sparrows and blackbirds contribute to the noisy chorus. An early and cloudless dawn started their orchestra early today, and early nightfall that came with slight showers started their evening song early, so that the whole day has been a serenade of bird melody.

The presentation of "Mr. Boo," a farce comedy in which fine local talent will be seen, will put aside the colonial bias that was shown by February 22. The show will be on February 23, and Miss Kathleen Bartle will appear in the title role. Miss Margaret Scarborough, Mrs. A. Marion Shrode, and Miss Kenneth Carter will act as stage manager, and R. B. Cowan and Homer Fort are among those who will make the play a success.

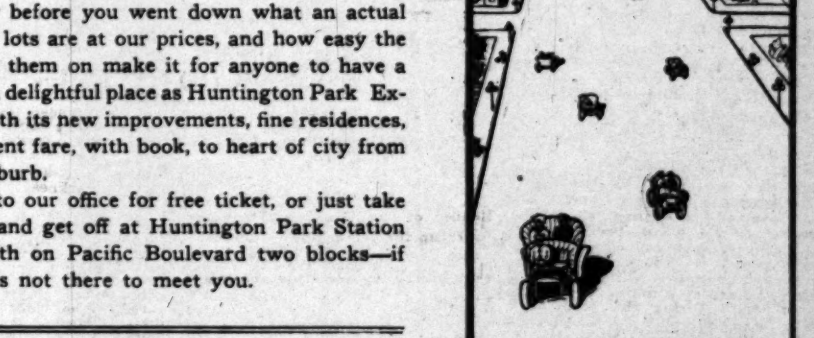

"Hotel del Coronado" always leads.

HUNTINGTON PARK EXTENSION, an elegant suburb of Los Angeles, adjoining the city on the south.

MONDAY, mysterious Monday! We always show more purchasers over Huntington Park Extension, and sell more lots to people who have spent all day Sunday "looking around," than we do any other day in the week.

There is something that seems to make this day a special day for home buyers. It must be that the snow-covered mountains look brighter of a Monday morning from the big, broad Pacific Boulevard—or the prices of these large lots seem smaller in comparison with those of properties viewed Sunday or the week before—or maybe it's just because you really did not know before you went down what an actual bargain these lots are at our prices, and how easy the terms we sell them on make it for anyone to have a home in such a delightful place as Huntington Park Extension is—with its new improvements, fine residences, 15-minute 5-cent fare, with book, to heart of city from this choice suburb.

Come up to our office for free ticket, or just take Whittier car and get off at Huntington Park Station and walk north on Pacific Boulevard two blocks—if our carriage is not there to meet you.
